Responses: 22 / 58 (37.93%)

Window: 2/28/20 6:00pm - 3/16/20 7:45am

What are the Teaching Assistant's teaching strengths?

- Always ready to help and lend their time to make sure the student understands a concept.
- Effective discussion worksheets
- Getting us to review during discussion
- Her Explaining concepts. Going through the steps of each problem was a very good way for her to help me learn the course.
- Really good at explaining concepts when asked a question and was super nice and easy to talk to.
- She can explain any concept really well
- She explains things clearly
- She is a very friendly TA. During the discussion sessions, she does good job helping students when we encounter difficult problems. She communicates with class competently.
- She is very helpful and thorough in her explanations.
- The TA keeps the discussion a very open environment, without forcing people to work together or forcing everyone to do the work in a structured way. The TA is excellent at explaining and detailing the material in a way that makes sense.
- VERY enthusiastic, approachable
- Very Very care about students. When I ask a question to her, she always explained the concepts with smile and tried hard to let student understand the concept well.
- Very friendly and helpful
- Very kind, and will put in her whole effort to guide students. I wish more TA's cared as much as she did. She has a great enthusiasm for the subject that she lends to her style of teaching.
- not bad
- very good at clarifying material
- 6 blank answers

How can this TA improve as a teacher?

- Give a brief overview of the general idea that the worksheets are on while they're getting passed out?
- Hard to understand at times
- I have no idea

This course was taught during the COVID-19 pandemic

- I think it would be a good idea to structure the discussion differently. Maybe give the students a certain amount of time to solve each question and when that time is up, go over how to solve it on the board. That way people don't get lost the entire class time and can hear the correct way to go about solving it. This would also prevent people from copying from each other just to get credit for the discussion.
- I think this is a leading question, but if anything, I wish she took control of the room with more of a forceful hand.
- Nothing
- Presenting recurring questions to the whole class (or writing on the board or otherwise just showing the whole class a response) could help solve the problems of many people without having to repeat oneself and spend time reiterating points to people.
- She's fine
- The TA tends to move quite linearly in their teachings, making it hard to keep up if in between an explanation there is a difficult to grasp concept.
- quicker posting of solutions to discussion worksheets
- take a look at the instructors notes to understand what the students are being taught
- 11 blank answers
